As well as completing H003/H003DS, candidates should have at least one of the following:

- Evidence of OFTEC 101 or 102
- Evidence of Gas Safe Registration – CCN1 & CEN1
- Evidence of formal plumbing and heating qualification i.e. City & Guilds 6129/6035 and 6089 or QCF 6189 or other suitable award
- Evidence of equivalent work experience on wet heating systems
- N/SVQ Level 2/3 in plumbing or equivalent earlier certification that provides evidence of competence

What subject areas will this course cover?

The HETAS Wet Appliance Installer course will cover the following topics:

- Wet appliance sizing and selection
- Installation, commissioning and decommissioning
- Service and maintenance of wet solid fuel appliances
- Fault diagnosis and rectification
- Connection of wet solid fuel appliances to heating systems
- Building regulations and standards

What assessments are involved?

The course will incorporate classroom based learning, practical assessments and a multiple choice exam.

What do I need for this course?

All training manuals, technical handbooks and certification fees are included in the course fee. For the candidate application and registration process you will need your National Insurance number and a passport sized photograph.

What status do I receive if I pass this course?

Following successful completion of the course, a training certificate will be awarded enabling the candidate to apply for registration with HETAS on the competent person scheme for the installation of wet solid fuel appliances.

*The H004 is not on Waxman Training Academy's standard HETAS course calendar, however, is available for candidates wishing to sit the course. Please enquire for further details and to book.
